REPORT WRITING IN HEALTH RESEARCH,”

A Research Sensitization Programme on "Report Writing in Health Research" was successfully conducted on 10th July 2026 at A. M. Shaikh Medical College for the BHMS Interns of the 2025–26 batch. The session was led by Dr. Rajashree R. Undale, who provided comprehensive guidance on the principles, structure, and scientific approach required for effective health research report writing. The programme aimed to equip interns with the knowledge and skills necessary to document, analyse, and communicate research findings in a systematic, ethical, and academically accepted manner.

By the end of the session, the interns gained a clear understanding of the essential components of a research report, including the title, abstract, introduction, methodology, results, discussion, conclusion, and references. They also learned the importance of evidence-based scientific writing, ethical reporting practices, accurate data presentation, and maintaining scientific integrity. The training enhanced their ability to prepare well-structured research reports suitable for academic submissions, publications, and professional dissemination, thereby strengthening their research and documentation skills.
