“A. M. SHAIKH HOMOEOPATHIC MEDICAL COLLEGE CONDUCTED INTERDEPARTMENTAL INTEGRATION SESSION ON VITAMINS IN HEALTH AND DISEASE”

A. M. Shaikh Homoeopathic Medical College conducted an Interdepartmental Integration session on “Vitamins in Health and Disease: An Integrated Clinical and Community Approach” on 12 August 2026 for the students of 3rd Year BHMS. The session was conducted by Dr. Deepa Gasti, Department of Practice of Medicine, and Dr. Usha Chavan, Department of Community Medicine.

The programme focused on developing an integrated understanding of vitamins, their importance in maintaining health, and their role in the prevention and management of deficiency-related diseases. The faculty members highlighted the clinical aspects of vitamin deficiencies along with their community-level implications, including nutritional awareness, prevention, early identification, and appropriate interventions. The session provided students with an opportunity to connect theoretical knowledge with practical clinical and community health perspectives. The interactive approach enhanced students' understanding of the importance of vitamins in promoting overall health and preventing disease.
